Drainage, docket questions dominate Waveland meeting

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Uniform culverts for the City of Waveland are on the way, despite reservations expressed by two aldermen.

Ward 3 Alderman Curtis P. (Phil) Colson suggested the culvert ordinance be put on hold until the comprehensive drainage study is completed, while Ward 4 Alderman Stan Weidman mentioned concern for residents unable to shoulder the financial burden of replacing existing culverts.

At the Tuesday, Feb. 4 meeting the board approved an ordinance whereby approximately 50 culverts throughout the city were determined to be impeding drainage due to being undersized, improperly installed, or damaged.

In cases of residential culverts, where it is necessary to replace the present one with another, the city will provide the labor and the resident will pay for the new culvert, as worded in the ordinance.

Colson again questioned the wisdom of replacing the undersized culverts before a comprehensive drainage study was completed.

He said he would like to wait to implement the ordinance until water flow direction for the entire city was determined by a comprehensive drainage study being prepared by the city planning consultants, Eaton and Associates.

He contended the study may show a different size culvert is needed than the one the ordinance requires.

Frilot said the city was already aware of water flow directions.

Weidman concurred in wanting to wait on the culvert ordinance, citing concern over an individual's ability to pay for another culvert should it be deemed faulty.

"Lucien (City Attorney Gex)," asked Weidman, "is there any way legally the city can pay for a culvert, and then charge the resident?"

"I am worried about the person who does not have the

Board denies contract renewal for principal

Hillman seeks hearing

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Hancock County School Board members Lennette Neeaise and Kay Sones blocked the recommendation by Superintendent Terrell Randolph to renew high school principal Donald Hillman's 1991-92 employment contract during a February 15 meeting.

No reason was given. Meeting state requirements, the school board met on the February 15 deadline for administrative contract renewals and kept all principals with the exception of Hillman.

Board president Frank Miller abstained from voting, Carol Bustetter was absent and Charles Thomas cast the only supportive vote.

Hillman in a phone interview Saturday said he was disappointed in the board decision.

He added that the letter he received from the board did not give any reasons as to why they voted his contract renewal down, but the letter did say he had seven days to ask for a hearing, during which time the board must explain their action.

"I gave a letter requesting a hearing to Mr. Randolph on Friday," said Hillman.

Approved for renewal were principals Clementine Williams at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlinton, Betty McLeod at Hancock North Central Elementary and Donald North, presently serving in the Middle East War, at Gulfview Elementary.

Bay police check for tag offenders

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Bay St. Louis Police Department is cracking down on people who move into Mississippi and don't comply with state tag laws.

Police Chief Robert Lee said he has received complaints that some local residents and others who move into the area don't have valid tags. He stated, "Any person who moves into the state to purchase a Mississippi license or register a vehicle is required to obtain a Mississippi license within 60 days."

"If you are a resident of a state other than Mississippi and you have a vehicle tag with seven working days, you must have a new or used vehicle tag issued by the state of Mississippi within 60 days of moving into the state."

He said the police department will be checking tags and tag checks around town, including schools.

Fla. casino corporation considers local operation

BY TRACI BONNEY

Negotiations continue in the efforts of Casino Enterprises, Inc., to bring dockside gambling to downtown Bay St. Louis, according to Bernard Goldstein, president of the Florida corporation.

Goldstein said in a Friday telephone interview that no agreement has yet been reached. He declined to disclose further details, saying the negotiations are confidential.

In Thursday's edition of The Sea Coast Echo, the company published a notice of intent to apply for a gaming license and listed 111 N. Beach Blvd. as the location planned for the docked ship.

The owners of the site, which is one of several parcels along Beach Blvd. that are zoned for commercial use, are Jerry Fisher, Donald Saucier, Bay St. Louis city attorney John Scaife and Hancock Realty Corp. They have formed a corporation called Dock of the Bay Group.

Scaife said Thursday the group has talked to a representative of Goldstein's and has sent the prospective buyers a list of the group's concerns.

Those concerns include: maintaining the atmosphere of the downtown area; hiring local people for construction and gaming operations; and obtaining complete background information and financial disclosure on all potential investors.

Off-site parking, use of architectural designs in keeping with the area and not competing with existing downtown merchants are other expectations the Dock of the Bay Group has for Casino Enterprises, Inc.

Goldstein said Casino Enterprises plans to address all these concerns in a manner that should please all involved.

Scaife said he told Mayor Edward A. Favre several months ago that he owned beachfront property and would not be able to advise the city about gaming matters.

Favre said he will follow the attorney's suggestion that the city hire another attorney to handle gambling issues, if necessary.

County okays redistricting

BY TRACI BONNEY

Part of District 3 may move into District 5 if a suggested redistricting plan is approved.

Gulf Regional Planning Commission representatives presented the board of supervisors with a proposal Thursday for evening out the population discrepancies shown in the 1990 census between District 3, with a population of 7,600, and District 5, with a population of 5,466.

The proposal would move part of the area around Rocky Hill Road, and part of Diamondhead, into District 5, giving it a population of 6,514 and District 3 a population of 6,552. A redistricting tribulation of the population is mandated by law and must be executed after each decade's census figures are released.

District 3 Supervisor Lisa Coward vehemently opposed losing either area, but she agreed to the proposal after

Waveland resident marks 100 years

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

She is 100 years young and is thankful to her deity, Jesus, for every day of her life.

Religion is the center of Rosie Staten Singleton Anthony's life. She speaks of how when she was born, in Lawrence County, Georgia, she was so tiny her parents could fit her into a coffee pot.

A mid-wife came to the house to see the infant, who they thought would die that night. "I know that God saved me and spared my life."

She was baptized in the Jordan River in 1908.

Anthony's parents worked in turpentine camps. They would work for a few months in one, and when the work was finished, they would move on to the next.

Her grandparents reared Anthony. Her grandfather was a wood rider. He would ride a horse through the woods, checking that the workers were busy collecting the gum used to make the turpentine.

Anthony married "Kid" Charlie Singleton in 1909. The marriage produced four daughters, three sons, and many years of happiness for Anthony.

"He brought home the groceries and I ate them," laughed Anthony.

The Singletons continued to travel with the turpentine camps along the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Anthony said it was a good life. The women would keep the small cabins built by the landowners for housing. They would keep small gardens and occasionally pick cotton for a sur-

Compretta for tight gambling controls

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Eliminating the minimum draft for cruise ships in Hancock County, will not happen if State Representative J.P. Compretta has his way.

"As a member of the Ways and Means Committee," said Compretta, "I plan to do everything in my power to insure the law is not changed."

Compretta reported that Saturday he received phone calls from many Hancock County residents who were concerned over an article in that day's Sun Herald. In the article it was said, boat operators desired doing away with the minimum draft for cruise ships, thereby allowing smaller ships access to the more shallow shores of the Bay and the Gulf.

The dockside gambling bill "coming up next week," according to Compretta started as a fee control bill and now it has expanded into other things.

Compretta stressed his determination to see to it that Hancock County has the best protection in law to assure control for a first rate gambling operation.

"We will not allow someone to float a barge in, throw an anchor over, and just gamble off the shoreline," said Compretta.

Just for men

St. Thomas Episcopal minister organizes discussion group

BY JANET MCQUEEN

An eight-year-old boy is riding double with his sister, nine, when they encounter a section of uneven sidewalk which sends them careening onto the pavement. Both badly scraped and bleeding, the girl cries freely, while her brother is told "not to act like a baby."

So goes the gender stereotype of strong men/weak women—in a society where men, for generations, have been taught to hold expressions of weakness inside.

Only in recent years, according to St. Thomas Episcopal Church Vicar, the Reverend Barry Cotter, have men begun to realize a need to reflect on their relationships and the underlying reasons for their actions.

Cotter, along with Pass Christian businessman J. Alfred Levert II and Diamondhead Property Owners Association manager Paul Montjoy, facilitated a three-part seminar "Men's Issues—For Men Only" in November.

The second series begins Wednesday night at 7:45 and continues March 6 and 13 at St. Thomas.

Levert will serve as moderator for the first session, which will deal with men's reactions to the war in Persian Gulf.

"The war has sparked emotions in all of us, particularly those who have served in Vietnam or Korea.

The country is 'getting it right' this time, in their support for our troops, and this raises all kinds of emotions in those who didn't experience that the first time around," said Cotter.

Rev. Barry Cotter

Memories of the war evoke feelings of male camaraderie for those who served in the military, he said, and signals the ongoing need for significant intimate friendships among males.

From that point, the discussion may take any direction, he said. During one session, talk centered on the father-son relationship and its influence on the adult male.

"Most men speak of their own fathers with tremendous nostalgia. The older they get, the more they try to recapture what intimacy there was, or reconstruct good memories of that relationship," said Cotter.

Levert added many fathers raise their sons in their own images, flaws and all.

"We impart a lot of our baggage on our kids. We must recognize our own scripts and not impose them on our children," said Levert, who has a son in his 20's and a 10-year-old son.

With open lines of communication, the older son has realized he is allowed to make mistakes, he said, emphasizing the need for parents to encourage their children to function every day within society "without a script."

The inner strength is the key, as "none of us can control events."

"Most of our parenting skills were learned during the 60's," said Cotter, referring to his peers. "The women's movement has stressed how important nurturing is, developing a tactile relationship with both parents. We should talk with our children and not to them, and let them know their parents are there if

Approximately 1,200 business and community leaders gathered in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum Convention Center Tuesday for the 25th annual Economic Symposium sponsored by Hancock Bank.

Speakers included Aubrey K. Lucas, Ph.D., President of the University of Southern Mississippi; Esby P. Price, Vice President and General Manager of Chevron U.S.A. Inc. Gulf of Mexico Production Business Unit; Jesse L. White, Jr., Ph.D., public policy consultant and former executive director of the Southern Growth Policies were so pleased with the Pass Christian location that in 1989 a one million dollar expansion was made at the plant and that another addition is being contemplated for the second quarter of this year.

After sharing the story of how his immigrant parents became successful after arriving in New York almost penniless and with little education, Renken reminded the audience that America is still a dream to the people of most nations. And although the streets of America may not be paved with gold, they are paved with opportunity. "As my father repeatedly our poverty."

Another change was a new policy started in Mississippi by Governor Hugh White, the BAWI plan, that encouraged industry to locate in the South by offering tax incentives, public subsidies and industrial development bonds. This along with abundant and cheap labor, good natural resources and adequate infrastructure attracted a flood of new industry. Per capita income rose and people started moving back to the South.

The Sunbelt was born. "We had come all the way from being, in FDR's words, the nation's number one economic problem of the 1930s to the economic promise land of the 1980s."

"But, just as we began to bask in our success, the reality changed. White said the economy became increasingly uncertain with takeovers and corporate restructuring; a skilled, flexible labor force became an important ingredient in competitiveness; the world was globalized almost overnight; and technology and innovation caused economic produced true capacity in our economy.

Things began to change in the 1970s with the emergence of the so-called "New South" governors such as William Winter of Mississippi and Jimmy Carter, Georgia. Then the recession of 1982 which hit the South with unprecedented viciousness followed by the policies of the Reagan presidency which had a negative impact on the region.

Because of these developments, a new burst of policy creativity came from Southern state capitols. These included education reform and funding, needed to help our region develop and compete globally.

"Southerners have the right stuff. Mississippians have always been pioneers. This state had the genius to create the model of growth in the 1930s, I think we can create the new model of development in the 1990s."

"To do this will take sacrifice, investment, patience, and a refusal to be distracted. We must forget business as usual, we must insist on excellence in all our institutions and not just

Board, Chapel Hill, NC; and Hank Renken, President, and Chief Executive Officer of Ter Chemicals.

Renken, a Diamondhead resident, gave a brief history of Ter Chemicals and how it came to be located on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The company operates out of the Pass Christian Industrial Park as a manufacturer of wax-based materials used as pigments for PVC pipe, corrugated boxes and cracking compounds for tires.

Their parent company, German Ter Hell & Company, was incorporated in 1908. It is headquartered in Hamburg, Germany with annual sales in excess of $100 million.

When Renken was first offered the opportunity to head Ter Chemicals, one of his biggest concerns was the prospect of moving to Mississippi. But after an initial scouting trip, he realized that the Coast was not at all like he had imagined, based on what he had read or been told growing up near New York City. After seeing the beaches, palm trees, fine old homes, etc., Renken phoned his said to me when I was a boy, in America you can truly have anything you want. It just depends on how hard you are willing to work for it."

Renken added that the modern world is no longer a planet with completely separate and distinct economic entities, but rapidly becoming one community, both economically and socially.

In closing, Renken urged all the young people in the room to "Get your fair share of a good American education and endeavor to learn a foreign language and become acquainted with other cultures, then go forth into the world and compete with the pride that you are an American and well prepared to compete in our ever shrinking global community."

In his address, Jesse White, Jr., explained the difference between development and growth. An example being an increase in the number of jobs or a job training program would be growth. An increase in per capita wealth or having all students graduate with an understanding of global economics would be development. Growth measures short-term indicators; development measures the creation of long-term capacity.

White went on to give a history of the South, dating back to the 1930s when most of the work force was employed in agriculture with a per capita income 50 percent that of the nation as a whole and governed by "neo-Bourbon" regimes.

One of the first changes to this culture was the mass migration of blacks and poor whites to the North. "In many ways the cities of the North are still dealing with the consequences of that migration. So, in a way, the South simply exported much of changes at unprecedented levels.

"And we awoke in the South to find the idea of the Sunbelt was, in fact a myth and that despite our impressive successes of the past 40 years, we were ill-equipped for this brave new world," White explained.

"We had neglected education and it had become our gravest disadvantage. We were resistant to change. We were globally ignorant. We had squandered too much of our money in higher education with too many institutions with little mission differentiation. We had kept taxes too low, failing to invest in education and social programs."

White said the South had been pretty good at growing but had not developed, neglecting to make the long-term investments in our people and infrastructure which would have on the sports team. And we must move beyond the good old boy network," White added.

Development is not about the acquisition of television sets or luxury yachts nor even the increase in per capita income, according to White. "The ends of development must be in providing for every Mississippi citizen the environment and opportunity to seize the gleam in his or her eye, to choose among meaningful options in his or her life, and to actualize his or her unique talent and singular gift. For if we do these things, the children of this state and of our region will inherit the land of our dreams," White concluded.

Aubrey Lucas presented an overview of the university system in Mississippi. "Higher education is truly economic development."

wife to inform her, "This isn't bad, matter of fact, not all at all."

Pass Christian was selected for the plant site for several reasons. It is near a seaport, has good rail access and is close to an interstate highway. It is also in the middle of Ter Chemical's target market area, Texas to Florida.

Renken stated that in less than one year his company had gone from drawing $100,000 a year, with resources spread within a ten-mile radius of the plant site.

Renken also said the city

There is something we need to remember about government. It is this:

Mississippi's governments are us.

Government is made up of those we elect to represent us at the capitol, at the courthouse, and at the city hall.

If we are dissatisfied with government, we are dissatisfied with the decisions we made in the selection of our governmental officials.

If we are questioning the work of our government, we are questioning our own wisdom in selecting those to whom we entrusted that work.

If we are losing confidence in our government, we must examine the decisions about government we made at the ballot box.

If we have lost confidence in our government, the ballot box becomes even more important.

As we approach the 1991 elections, we should remember: Mississippi's governments are us.

For many years, I have heard the theory expounded that Mississippi needs a business man governor. There's a notion that Reed was the ideal businessman candidate for that bill.

He was not only a very successful businessman but he had the rare credentials of a humanitarian, a leader, a champion of public education, one who went back to the 1960s when public schools were endangered by the end of a 15 m. desegregation.

Reed's voice was one of the very few to be heard from the statewide business community back then, calling for peaceful compliance with federal civil rights laws and racial moderation.

There's no question that Reed was the best candidate the Republican could have fielded four years ago. And it appears the GOP certainly won't have one of his calibre this year.

But Mississippi politics is richer because Jack Reed put his hat in the ring.

Morning Stiffness: Arthritis Warning Sign #1

If your morning stiffness is in the joints that last more than 30 minutes, you may have a problem. And the chances are that the arthritis can be arrested... before it does permanent damage.

There are literally dozens of different types of arthritis, many of which may start off with morning stiffness. In point of fact however, different kinds of arthritis may lead to different kinds of damage affecting specialty treatment of these diseases. Dr. Mariel Sedrish, M.D., degenerative arthritis are spent in either a postgraduate training program or certification in one of those areas.

Sedrish, is board certified in both Medicine and Pediatrics. Her postgraduate training is successfully completed. The physician then begins an additional two to three year training program (called a "fellowship") in rheumatology, concentrating on the diagnosis and treatment of only the conditions known as arthritis and connective tissue diseases.

The end result of all these years of training is the ability to recognize what kind of arthritis the patient has, the understanding of which tests will be most helpful in diagnosing it efficiently and the knowledge of what forms of treatment are most successful in combating the disease.

Once an accurate diagnosis is made, treatment can be begun and often monitored by your regular family doctor. Then, if necessary, the Rheumatologist and the Family Practitioner can keep you on the track.

Bay theater troupe uses drama to help others

BY TRACI BONNEY

What do high school students have in common with roses, sunflowers and weeds?

Well, in this case the students are the roses, sunflowers and weeds.

The students are from Bay High School, and they form the 12-member United Footprints Improvisational Teen Theatre Troupe. On stage, they become plants, or people with plants growing out of their heads, or any number of other people or things in a form of psychosocial drama which is designed to promote awareness, communication and growth.

The students act out a short scene; then remain in character while the audience interacts with them, discussing the issues shown in the skit and how those issues affect the audience members.

Renee Hamm, the group's sponsor, said the troupe was trained by improvisational theater participants from Provo, Utah, during a workshop.

She said, "The United Footprints troupe can tailor their scenes to any age group, from children through senior citizens and from school groups to church organizations."

"The scenes deal with a variety of issues, from drug/alcohol abuse to family problems, from peer pressure to youth-adult communication."

The troupe has a flexible schedule and can perform whenever a group meets. The organization that wants the troupe to perform determines the date, time and length of the performance.

There is no cost involved, Hamm added.

To contact Hamm for more information or to schedule the troupe for a performance, call Renee Hamm at 467-6611 between 7:30 a.m. and 3 p.m., or write to her at Bay High School, 750 Blue Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

bility of consolidation of the higher education system in the state, Lucas nixed the idea. "If we were to create a higher education system in Mississippi today, I don't think we would have as many different institutions. But we have them now and each one has its purpose and its alumni. With the political climate being what it is today, I doubt we will see any close."

Another concern is the exodus of educators to other states. "The only way we can stop this trend is with more money and to create a better environment to keep them. I think we talk too much about the ones who leave. What about those dedicated educators who have been with us through thick and thin?" Lucas stated that education reform is needed. "We must make sure that we learn the skills we need. The only way to accomplish this is with time on task."

Lucas received the biggest ovation of the meeting when he urged everyone to "turn off that TV so your kids will have time to learn. Turn off that television, education begins at home."

Espy Price commented on his company's drilling plans in the Gulf of Mexico. The Norphlet Gas Trend is a gas field that extends from Mississippi to Florida. Chevron owns and plans to drill wells in several tracts of this offshore field.

The Chevron well number one, block 57, near Cat Island, took one year to complete at a cost of about $30 million. The well did not strike useable gas.

But Espy stated that it did prove that his company could drill in an environmentally sensitive area without harm. The well was built on a zero discharge platform where even the rainwater was collected and shipped to shore for disposal. Some nine million gallons of fluids were removed from the rig according to Espy.

Chevron has plans to construct a 100 mile pipeline system, connecting all its wells to an onshore processing plant. The onshore site could be located near the existing facility in Pascagoula or possibly south Mobile County in Alabama.

The first Hancock Bank Symposium attracted about 18 people in 1966. At that time the bank had seven branches and assets of about $61 million. Today Hancock Bank has grown to 56 branches with $1.4 billion in assets to become one of the strongest banks in the nation.

Eastover acquires Trustmark deposits

Eastover Bank for Savings has acquired the deposits of Trustmark National Bank's branch in Louisville, according to James N. O. Moffat III, president and chief executive officer. The Trustmark branch's deposits totaled approximately $7 million.

Eastover Bank has assets of over $500 million and operates 32 bank offices in 20 cities and towns throughout Mississippi.

The map of the proposed changes will be on display for review by the public at the GRPC office in Gulfport, as well as in the county supervisors' office. A public hearing on the redistricting will be held Monday, March 11, 7 p.m., in the supervisors' board room on the courthouse's second floor.

The board also discussed authorizing a preliminary study on the feasibility of constructing an addition to the Hancock County jail. The study, to be conducted by Fred Wagner, would review the costs and other factors involved in building the addition, which would be designed to house additional inmates placed by the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

The housing of more inmates will mean more revenues coming into the county and the jail's operating budget, Sheriff Ronald Peterson said.

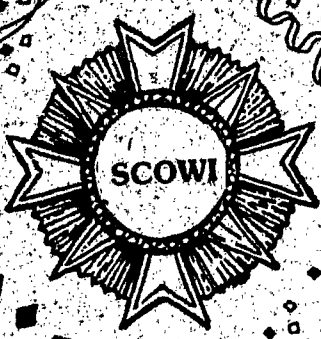

The supervisors told Wagner they would authorize the study, at a cost not to exceed $1,000, at the next regular board meeting March 4.

One of the first items on the supervisors' agenda was the ribbon cutting ceremony for the Hancock County Human Services Complex on Longfellow Road. The board discussed arrangements for the 2 p.m. March 3 ceremony with Hilda Bourg, JoAnn Lagasse and Olivia Roland.

Kiln VFW Auxiliary 6285

The Ladies Auxiliary of Post 6285, Kiln, held a covered dish supper and meeting Tuesday, Feb. 19 at 7 p.m. in the post home.

The regular monthly meeting was opened by Estelle Depreo, president. The roll of officers was called, and acting chaplain Mabel Moran read the opening prayer. The Pledge of Allegiance was said by all members, followed by the singing of "America." Prayers were offered for all the troops in Saudi Arabia.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and accepted as read. Bessie Necaise gave the treasurer's report, and various reports and official communications were then read by the president.

On March 13 at the post home, the auxiliary will entertain the veterans from Gulfport VA Hospital and the home veterans in private homes and sponsors with a chicken and spaghetti dinner, followed by a social and bingo.

A donation of $50 was given to the Biloxi Veterans National Cemetery Fund.

The auxiliary voted to purchase kitchen equipment for the post home and also to purchase flags to be placed around the memorial on the post grounds.

Betty Fayre was sworn in by the president as a new member. The auxiliary is now over 100 percent in membership.

Those attending the mid-winter conference held at the Biloxi Hilton Jan. 25, 26 and 27 were post members Commander J. W. Olsen, Cleo Dunhurst, Elus Depreo, Michael Ladner, Paul Moody and auxiliary president Estelle Depreo, Mabel Moran, Mildred Lee, Bessie Lee Necaise and Jackie Moody.

A motion for the meeting to adjourn was made and accepted. Next meeting will be March 19, 7 p.m. at the post home.

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

The Phi Beta Lambda Sorority of the PRJC hosted a St. Valentine's Day party for the residents of Hotel Reed Nursing Center on Thursday, Feb. 14.

Roslyn Weather and Oris Planchard of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 were among the guests.

The sorority ladies, most of them from Bay St. Louis, handed out "bags of goodies" to each of the residents as the auxiliary ladies visited the residents. Refreshments were also served.

Cella Autman, director of activity, had the dining room decorated in hearts, flowers and balloons for the occasion.

Roslyn Weathers entertained the residents with love songs and patriotic songs, also familiar songs the residents enjoy when the auxiliary sponsors the sing-a-long and birthday party activity the first and last Thursday of each month.

Autman, on behalf of the residents, thanked all the ladies for making this a memorable occasion for all the residents.

On Wednesday, Feb. 20, at the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post 139 there was a blood drawing under the supervision of "Big John" Rutherford. The ladies from the auxiliary assisted with registration of donors and helped with the work to be done. They also served refreshments to the donors.

It was a very successful event, and thanks are extended to all who participated for their cooperation.

Learning Ladies

The February meeting of Learning Ladies Extension Homemakers Club was at the Mississippi Power Building. There were nine members and three guests in attendance. Charlotte Edwards, president, presided.

Edwards gave a report on the leadership program held in January on stress.

Chairmanship duties were explained to the new members. Wanda Berthelot was hostess for the meeting.

Edwards described the club's ongoing project of making lap robes and bibs for the nursing home. She urged the members to continue supporting this project.

Reba Echezabal again asked the members to consider making quilts for babies and children with AIDS who are hospitalized. Recommendation was made that the club write a report to submit to Dr. Purdie, who is again making monetary awards to honor an outstanding community or educational project carried out by an Extension Homemaker Club.

A format for future meetings was discussed, and suggestions or recommendations will be welcome to make meetings more meaningful. Suggestion was made that each member who sews make a garment to be modeled and displayed in April at the district meeting.

The group was urged to attend the council and leadership meeting next Wednesday.

The leadership topic is "growing herbs," and will be open to the public.

Berthelot also mentioned there will be a craft show at the new Hancock School on Saturday, March 9. A table is $35, and if anyone is interested to contact her.

The meeting adjourned at 11:15 a.m.

Annunciation Senior Citizens

The Annunciation Senior Citizens of Kiln held their monthly covered dish luncheon on Wednesday, February 20 at noon in the parish center. A delicious buffet, desserts and soft drinks were served and enjoyed by all in attendance.

A social and bingo followed the luncheon. Members celebrating February birthdays were Bernice Waejacs and Ray Favre. Plans were discussed for a day's trip to St. Joseph Abbey, St. Benedict, La. for April.

Next luncheon and social will be March 20, and all senior citizens are welcome. Call the rectory or Estelle Depreo for information.

Perpetuate those old-timers by propagation

Many folks have favorite old-time plants that may be declining due to age, or a friend may desire that favorite old plant in their landscape but cannot find it anymore. Other folks may possess cherished plants that were proudly incorporated into their landscape only to have to bid them a fair adieu in a sudden move.

If you fit one of these categories, there is hope thanks to certain methods of plant propagation.

Plant propagation is simply the development of new plants through sexual or asexual methods. Sexual methods involve flower production, pollination and fruit and seed production. Asexual methods of propagation involve the use of vegetative plant parts (roots, bulbs, tubers, corms, buds, stems and leaves) to develop a new variety or to perpetuate the same variety.

This form of propagation generally involves techniques of grafting, budding, division, cuttings, and layering and is the only way to guarantee that you obtain the exact plant. Therefore, most growers and homeowners are dependent upon asexual means of plant propagation.

Propagating landscape plants in the home garden is relatively easy and extremely rewarding if you follow some easy tips, if you know the time of year a particular plant roots best, and if you know which method works best at a given time.

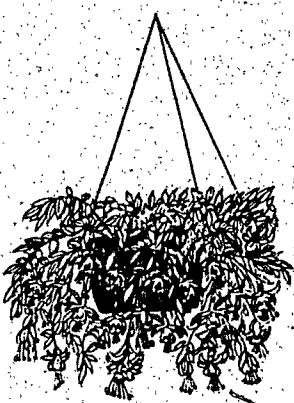

The two methods of propagation used by the homeowner include cutting and layering.

Stem cutting is probably the most important type for that are of moderate growth and from portions of the plant that receive abundant sunlight. Generally the lateral or side branches will suffice, but if the plant is low in adequate lateral branches, topping will generate additional lateral branching (do not top trees).

Accelerated lateral branching from this method is due to the displacement of a naturally occurring plant hormone called auxin.

You should never use fast-growing, soft, tender shoots since they tend to rot. Never use old woody stems since they root slowly and may drop their leaves. Never use week interior shoots and never use the extremely large shoots. The cuttings should be 3 to 7 inches long.

When collecting softwood cuttings be sure to take care that the cuttings do not desiccate prior to planting. This can be done by collecting the tissue early in the morning and wrapping it in a moist, clean towel and placing it in an unsealed garbage bag to keep it out of the sun.

It is imperative that the cuttings remain cool, moist and turgid (leaves full of water).

Remember that placing the cuttings in the sun for just a few minutes can cause serious damage and soaking them in water for long periods can also cause damage.

Once the cuttings have been properly acquired, the foliage on the lower half of the plant is removed, the base of the stem cut at a slant through a leaf joint, the cut ends dipped in a rooting hormone powder to hasten rooting and then placed in a rooting box about two inches apart. Remember to minimize the number of large leaves to reduce the amount of leaf water loss and also remove all flowers and flower buds.

Softwood cuttings are relatively easy to root but may require more attention. Leaves are pertinent to rooting softwood cuttings and all means should be taken to prevent leaf drop. Therefore they must be kept in a moist and humid environment at all times to reduce transpiration (water loss from the leaves).

The temperature should be about 75 to 80 degrees F at the base of the plant and about 70 degrees at the leaves for most species.

Most softwood cuttings will develop roots in two to five weeks depending upon the species. Once the roots are .5 to .75 inches long they can be transplanted to a well-drained, fertile soil and allowed to grow there for one year before transplanting to the landscape.

The rooting soil mix for softwood cuttings should be porous to allow good air exchange and drainage. Some excellent mixes are (a) 1 part clean, sharp sand and 1 part shredded peat moss, or (b) 1 part clean, sharp sand and 1 part perlite, or (c) 1 part clean, sharp sand, 1 part perlite, and 1 part peat moss. Be sure to mix these by volume and not by weight.

Semihardwood cuttings are used to root woody, broad-leaved evergreen species. These cuttings are taken in the summer from new shoots that are partially mature. The cuttings should be three to six inches long, leaves retained on the upper end, the number of large leaves reduced and grown under moist and humid conditions (intermittent misting is good). Be sure to prevent the cuttings from drying out during collection.

Hardwood cuttings are prepared during the late fall, winter or early spring while the plant is still dormant. These cuttings are especially good for propagating deciduous shrubs during December, January and February. Some plants that are successfully rooted with hardwood cuttings include Deutzia, Crepe myrtle, Weigela, Roses, Forsythia, Althaea, Winter Honeysuckle, Hdrangeas, Spirea, Beautyberry, Quince, Jasmine, Snowball Viburnum, Fig, Grape, some Plums, Willow, Poplar, Wisteria and Pomegranate.

Generally the wood from the previous season's growth is used, but some plants like fig and certain plum varieties can be rooted from two-year old or older wood.

Wood for hardwood cuttings should be taken from plants that are healthy, of moderate size and vigor and growing in full sunlight. This wood has adequate food reserves for developing roots. Do not use wood that has extremely rank growth since the food reserves are generally low, or from small, weak interior shoots, or from plants that are under stress.

The size of the cuttings can vary from lengths of 4 to 30 inches and diameters of .25 to 1 to 2 inches depending upon the plant species. Generally a 12 inches long cutting is adequate for most homeowners.

Once the cuttings have

State horticulture owes success to vegetables, turf, landscape

Weather played Russian roulette with Mississippi's horticultural producers in 1990. And in that game of chance, vegetable and ornamental producers heard the click of an empty chamber while fruit and nut producers took the full blast.

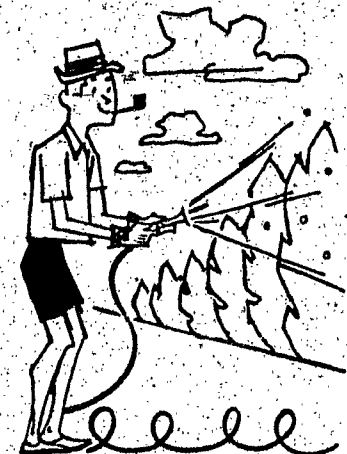

The value of on-farm production for horticultural crops in 1990 was estimated at $90 million, an increase of $8 million over 1989. Much of that success story belonged to vegetables, turf and landscape plants.

"Because of the successes with the packing sheds in south and northeast Mississippi, and the agricultural incubator in Winston and Kemper counties, there is much interest in growing vegetables," said Roger Crowder, extension horticultural crops marketing specialist based at Louisville. "We are on the verge of thrusting forward as a vegetable-producing state."

Some of the 43,000 acres planted in vegetables in 1990 were deluged by spring showers, but many producers found they received enough water at the right time to make a good crop.

The lack of rain in late July and August brought the season to an earlier end, but we had the highest amount of acreage planted in several years," said Dr. David Nagel, extension vegetable specialist at Mississippi

State University. Wet fields kept many watermelon producers from planting and held the watermelon acreage to just under 10,000 acres. But other vegetable producers put in an additional 2,500 acres of southern peas—bringing that total to 10,000 acres—and planted more peppers, cucumbers, cabbage and cantaloupe.

The havoc wreaked on the landscape by the December 1989 freeze helped the state's 546 nursery operators and 100 commercial greenhouse producers sell more plants.

After the cold snap killed plants and grass, homeowners were eager in 1990 to replace what was damaged. Every blade of St. Augustine grass grown by sod producers in 1990 was sold.

But there were other factors in play.

"The environmental issues raised in 1990 got everybody concerned and willing to do something by planting trees, shrubs and plants," said Dr. David Tatum, MSU extension nursery specialist. "Our greenhouse industry also did well due to the freezes in Florida and Texas."

Life was dismal, however, for fruit and nut producers in 1990. The freeze damaged pecan trees already weakened from weather stresses of 1989. Producers were left with only one-fourth of a crop they expected to harvest.

"Pecan prices were higher in 1990, but growers didn't have the nuts to sell," said Dr. Freddie Rasberry, extension fruit and nut specialist. "And we were like other states in the Southeast; there were no pecans in Alabama and Louisiana."

Cold weather in late spring zapped prospects for a good peach and blueberry crop north of Meridian and cut crop production for both fruits in half further south.

"The quality of the peaches

we had was not quite as good as we would have liked, but prices held up because of shortages," Rasberry said.

Muscadine production wasn't affected as much by the cold as other crops. The clinker in the crop's potential tonnage was the summer drought.

"Extreme heat and dry weather caused smaller berries," said Guy Feltenstein, president of the Mississippi Muscadine Growers Association. "However, the sugar content in almost every shipment made to the Southern Touch processing plant was up from 1989."

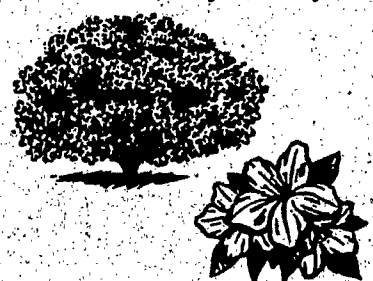

Despite the unexpected turns the weather takes in Mississippi, horticultural production is on the upswing and the 1990s could be that industry's decade. For horticultural producers to reap the fruits, they must become sophisticated.

"Horticulture plays a more important role in our daily lives than we realize," said Dr. Richard Mullenax, head of the Mississippi State University horticulture department. "We're poised to work with the growers of Mississippi to help them better their production."

Crosby Arboretum hosts azalea seminar

The Crosby Arboretum will host a one-day seminar entitled Azaleas and Their Companion Plants, on Thursday, March 21.

The morning session will begin at 8:30 a.m. at the Crosby Memorial Library in Picayune.

Lunch and the afternoon session will be at Pinecote Pavilion on the arboretum grounds.

Fred Galle, former director of horticulture at Callaway Gardens, Ga., will be the principal speaker. Galle is a frequent lecturer and is widely known for his writing on horticultural subjects.

His book, Azaleas, is regarded internationally as a standard reference on Rho-dodendron species. He will present a general history of azaleas and their origins.

Other speakers will include Bill Dodd, recently retired from Tom Dodd Nurseries in Semmes, Ala.; Dr. Neil G. Odenwald and Wayne Womack, professors of landscape architecture at Louisiana State University; and Edward Blake Jr. and Bob Brzuszek of The Crosby Arboretum.

All speakers will share their expertise on a variety of subjects: the propagation, design, hybridizing and culture of azaleas and their companion plants.

The meeting is intended for home owners, gardeners, designers, retailers and anyone with an avid interest in growing and gardening with native and cultivated azaleas.

The seminar will be limited to 75 registrants on a first-come, first-served basis. For more information, contact the Crosby Arboretum Foundation in Hattiesburg at 261-3137.

been taken, they can be put in an outdoor propagation box or directly in a well-drained, fertile garden row. The cuttings should be planted deep, leaving only the top 4 inches exposed. Remember the buds always point up.

With a little luck the cuttings should begin rooting by late spring and should be left in the garden through the summer and transplanted to their proper place following the first killing frost.

Herbaceous cuttings are used to root certain plants as Geraniums, Chrysanthemums, Coleus, Carnations, and other florist type plants. The cuttings should be three to five inches long with leaves retained on the upper part of the plant and rooted under the same conditions as softwood cuttings.

Layering is another form of asexual propagation that is quite simple and requires digging a shallow trench, removal of the leaves from the branch and then scratching the bark of the area to be buried.

The branch, still attached to the mother plant, is pulled to the ground, buried in the trench and a brick placed over it for weight. Be sure to leave some tip foliage above the ground.

During the summer rooting will occur in a few weeks, whereas during the winter it takes longer. Once the roots are well formed, the plant can be removed from the mother plant. Spiraea, Forsythia, Azaleas, Jasmine, Climbing Roses, Eubonymus, Lilac and Viburnum layer easily.

A propagation structure is often necessary for rooting. This structure can be as elaborate as a greenhouse or as simple as a clean, plastic bucket with holes in the bottom.

An easy to make propagation box calls for the use of scrap lumber to make a rectangular frame that is three feet wide and four feet long.

This is generally large enough to hold several hundred cuttings. The lumber size can be one inch by six inches or one inch by eight inches. The box should be filled five to six inches deep with the rooting soil mix. A plastic tent cover will conserve humidity and prevent the cuttings from drying.

Even though rooting plants can be fun and rewarding, it also requires a long time to develop a usable plant. Therefore I generally recommend that most people consider going to their local nursery for the bulk of their plants.

For more information about plant propagation, call the Hancock County Extension Office (467-3456) for a free copy of "Propagating Landscape Shrubs."

So, until next week, this is Randy Smith saying, don't let grandma's lovely old lilacs fade into oblivion—start some for your grandchildren!

Also, our audit, made in accordance with the standards mentioned above, would not necessarily disclose material weaknesses in the internal control systems for which our study and evaluation was limited to a preliminary review of the systems as discussed in the fifth paragraph of this report.

However, our study and evaluation and our audit disclosed the following conditions that we believe to be more than a relatively low risk that errors or irregularities in amounts that would be material to a federal financial assistance program may occur and not be detected within a timely period.

Coastal Zone Management

1. Finding

There was no separation of duties in the responsibilities of the personnel function and the reviewing of and investigation of discrimination complaints.

Recommendation

The equal employment opportunity officer should be someone other than the county administrator.

Board of Supervisors' Response

We will appoint an equal employment opportunity officer other than the county administrator.

Rural Community Fire Protection Grant

1. Finding

Adequate controls over monitoring receipt of federal funds were lacking as some grant money was settled directly to the West Hancock Volunteer Fire Department for reimbursement of the purchase of fire fighting equipment when the county made the purchase.

Recommendation

The grant reimbursement should be settled to the county.

Fire Coordinator's Response

The grant reimbursement has been settled to the county.

Hancock County Library Construction Grant

1. Finding

There was not adequate control to insure that the required grant reports were filed as required by the grant agreement. The reports were not filed timely.

Recommendation

All reports and reimbursement requests should be filed in accordance with grant requirements.

Board of Supervisors' Response

The grant expenditure reports and reimbursement requests will be filed monthly.

Revenue Sharing

1. Finding

There was not adequate cash management control to assure that all funds were obligated or spent as specified by the grant requirements. There were revenue sharing funds which had not been obligated or spent within twenty-four months of the last entitlement.

Recommendation

The county should use these funds as provided by the Revenue Sharing Act.

Board of Supervisors' Response

The county will expend these funds.

These conditions were considered in determining the nature, timing and extent of the audit tests to be applied in (1) our audit of the 1989 component unit financial statements and (2) our audit and review of the county's compliance with laws and regulations noncompliance with which we believe could have a material effect on the allowability of program expenditures for each nonmajor federal financial assistance program. This report does not affect our report on the financial statements and on the county's compliance with laws and regulations dated August 23, 1990.

This report is intended solely for the use of management, the cognizant agency and the grantor of federal financial assistance and should not be used for any other purpose. Members of the Board of Supervisors
Hancock County, Mississippi

We have made a study and evaluation of the central purchasing system of Hancock County, Mississippi, oversight unit, as of and for the year ended September 30, 1989. Our study and evaluation included tests of compliance of the purchase clerk records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

The Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi, oversight unit, is responsible for establishing and maintaining a central purchasing system in accordance with Sections 31-7-101 through 31-7-127, Miss. Code Ann. (1972). In addition, the Board of Supervisors is responsible for purchasing in accordance with the bid requirements of Section 31-7-13, Miss. Code Ann. (1972). The Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi, oversight unit, has established centralized purchasing for all funds of the county and has established an inventory control system. The objective of the central purchasing system is to provide a reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that purchases are executed in accordance with applicable state law.

Because of inherent limitations in any central purchasing system, errors or irregularities may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of the system to future periods is subject to the risk that procedures may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, or that the degree of compliance with the procedures may deteriorate.

In our opinion, except for the conditions described below, the central purchasing system of Hancock County, Mississippi, oversight unit, taken as a whole, provides reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that purchases are executed in compliance with the aforementioned sections.

Sheriff

1. Finding

Section 31-7-101, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires all purchases to go through central purchasing. The sheriff's department purchased items for its canteen operation without going through central purchasing.

Hancock County, Mississippi
Report on Central Purchasing System
Purchase Clerk Schedules
August 23, 1990

Recommendation

The sheriff should process canteen purchases through central purchasing.

Sheriff's Response

We are now running all purchases through central purchasing that are required by law.

Purchase Clerk

1. Finding

Section 31-7-103, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), establishes the procedures for the purchase of supplies, materials and equipment. The board of supervisors approved payment for a double shipment of supplies.

Recommendation

The board of supervisors should follow the purchasing procedures established by state law.

Purchase Clerk's Response

Double shipment of supplies is not outlined in the purchasing procedures prescribed by the State Auditor's Office. Therefore, we believe payment would be in compliance with the law after being brought before the board of supervisors for approval and entered on the minutes. The Hancock County Purchasing Department is now in compliance with the centralized purchasing system as prescribed by the State Auditor's Office.

The accompanying schedules of (1) purchases not made from the lowest bidder, (2) emergency purchases and (3) purchases made noncompetitively from a sole source are presented in accordance with Section 31-7-115, Miss. Code Ann. (1972). The information contained on these schedules has been subjected to procedures performed in connection with our aforementioned study and evaluation of the purchasing system, and in our opinion, is fairly presented when considered in relation to that study and evaluation.

We have audited the component unit financial statements of Hancock County, Mississippi, oversight unit, for the year ended September 30, 1989, and have issued our report thereon dated August 23, 1990. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, Government Auditing Standards, issued by the U.S. General Accounting Office, the Single Audit Act of 1984, and the provisions of OMB Circular A-128, Audits of State and Local Governments, and accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

The management of Hancock County, Mississippi, oversight unit, is responsible for the county's compliance with laws and regulations. In connection with our audit referred to above, we selected and tested transactions and records to determine the county's compliance with laws and regulations noncompliance with which could have a material effect on the component unit financial statements of the county.

The results of our tests indicate that for the transactions tested, Hancock County, Mississippi, oversight unit, complied with those laws and regulations referred to above, except as described below. This instance of noncompliance was considered by us in evaluating whether the component unit financial statements are presented fairly in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. With respect to the transactions not tested, nothing came to our attention to indicate that Hancock County, Mississippi, oversight unit, had not complied with laws and regulations other than those laws and regulations for which we noted violations in our testing referred to above.

Chancery Clerk

1. Finding

Section 27-105-315, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires the county to have its unsecured deposits fully collateralized (105%) by securities based upon market value and the securities are to be held in the name of the county. A significant amount of the county's unsecured deposits were uncollateralized.

In connection with the audit referred to above, we selected and tested transactions and records from nonmajor federal financial assistance programs to determine the county's compliance with laws and regulations noncompliance with which we believe could have a material effect on the allowability of program expenditures.

The results of our tests indicate that for the transactions and records tested, Hancock County, Mississippi, oversight unit, complied with the laws and regulations referred to in the second paragraph of our report. Our testing was limited to that which would be necessary to express an opinion on whether Hancock County, Mississippi, oversight unit, administered those programs in compliance with all material aspects with laws and regulations noncompliance with which we believe could have a material effect on the allowability of program expenditures; however, with respect to the transactions that were not tested by us, nothing came to our attention to indicate that Hancock County, Mississippi, oversight unit, had violated laws and regulations referred to in the second paragraph of our report.

Members of the Board of Supervisors
Hancock County, Mississippi

We have audited the component unit financial statements of Hancock County, Mississippi, oversight unit, for the year ended September 30, 1989, and have issued our report thereon dated August 23, 1990. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, Government Auditing Standards, issued by the U.S. General Accounting Office, the Single Audit Act of 1984, and the provisions of OMB Circular A-128, Audits of State and Local Governments, and accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

Members of the Board of Supervisors
Hancock County, Mississippi

We have audited the component unit financial statements of Hancock County, Mississippi, oversight unit, for the year ended September 30, 1989, and have issued our report thereon dated August 23, 1990. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the procedures prescribed by the State Auditor, and accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records, and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

During the course of our audit, certain matters were detected which require the attention of management. These matters, which do not have a material effect on the component unit financial statements, involve weaknesses in the county's system of internal accounting and administrative controls and noncompliance with state laws and regulations. The findings and recommendations of the prior year have been corrected by management unless it is specifically stated otherwise in the following findings and recommendations. Our findings and recommendations and your responses are as follows:

Board of Supervisors

1. Finding

As reported in the prior year audit reports, bank statements were not being reconciled timely. The reconciliations also include reconciling items which have been carried forward for a number of years.

Recommendation

The bank statements should be reconciled when received from the bank and the reconciling items should be corrected properly.

Board of Supervisors' Response

All bank statements are now current. The noncurrent reconciling items have been written off during fiscal year 1989-1990.

Hancock County, Mississippi
Management Report
August 23, 1990

2. Finding

While performing the 1988-1989 fiscal year audit, we observed a substantial amount of cash and checks were maintained in a file cabinet. Some of these funds had been received up to five weeks earlier.

Recommendation

Receipts should be deposited timely.

Board of Supervisors' Response

As of now, we will make deposits daily.

3. Finding

As reported in the prior year audit reports, Section 7-7-211, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), gives the State Auditor's Office the authority to prescribe systems of accounting for county governments. The county did not correctly assign objective numbers for certain revenue accounts according to their source, as specified in the prescribed chart of accounts.

Recommendation

Revenues should be assigned the objectives as prescribed by the State Auditor's Office.

Board of Supervisors' Response

Source codes have been changed for fiscal year 1989-1990 and objective codes have been changed for fiscal year 1990-1991.

4. Finding

As reported in the prior year audit reports, Section 7-7-211, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), gives the State Auditor's Office the authority to prescribe accounting systems. Lease purchases were not recorded in the general long-term debt ledger.

Recommendation

The board of supervisors should properly maintain the general long-term debt ledger as prescribed in the County Financial Accounting Manual.

Board of Supervisors' Response

Lease purchases will be recorded for fiscal year 1989-1990.

5. Finding

Section 7-7-211, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), authorizes the State Auditor's Office to prescribe systems of accounting for counties. The county is holding funds for the justice court which are not recorded in the county records.

Recommendation

All transactions should be recorded in the county records.

Board of Supervisors' Response

These funds are recorded in the county records for fiscal year 1989-1990.

6. Finding

Section 19-23-19, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), allows the board of supervisors to pay a sum of $300 a month to the county prosecuting attorney for secretarial services. The board of supervisors paid $300 too much for fiscal year ending September 30, 1989.

Recommendation

The board of supervisors should pay the county attorney the amount allowed by state law for secretarial services.

Board of Supervisors' Response

The county attorney was changed from being paid on the docket to being paid on payroll. When this occurred, there was a change in the date of payment causing the above mentioned error. The county attorney's pay was reduced by $300 for the month of September, 1990.

7. Finding

Sections 27-25-11, 27-25-505 and 27-25-705, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), set out the severance taxes should be distributed to the county school district. The county did not properly distribute severance taxes to the county school district.

Recommendation

The board of supervisors should distribute severance taxes as required by state law.

Board of Supervisors' Response

Closer attention will be given to insure the severance tax settlements are made on a timely basis.

8. Finding

Section 25-3-41, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires a prescribed travel voucher to be submitted to the county for reimbursement of county business travel expenses. The prescribed travel voucher form was not always being used.

Recommendation

The board of supervisors should use the travel voucher form prescribed by the Department of Finance and Administration.

Board of Supervisors' Response

All county employees report their travel expenses on the required forms. The expenses noted were incurred by an election commissioner.

9. Finding

Section 19-13-31, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires the president of the board of supervisors to sign the docket of claims. The president of the board was not signing the docket of claims.

Recommendation

The president of the board should sign the claims docket.

Board of Supervisors' Response

The president of the board of supervisors will sign the dockets as of now.

10. Finding

Section 27-39-303, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), authorizes the tax proceeds for the general county levy to be used for any purpose authorized for any other levy, excluding the levy for roads and bridges. The Hancock County Fund transferred money to the road and bridge fund.

Recommendation

The money transferred from the Hancock County Fund to the road and bridge fund should be repaid.

Board of Supervisors' Response

The money in question was repaid to the Hancock County Fund by the road maintenance fund in August, 1990.

11. Finding

Section 25-4-105, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), states that no public servant shall be a vendor with the governmental entity of which he is a member, other than in his contract of employment, or have a material financial interest in any business that is a vendor with the governmental entity of which he is a member. The board of supervisors approved the payment of claims to a vendor who was also an employee of the county.

Recommendation

The board of supervisors should cease doing business with any vendors who are also employees of the county. In addition, we also recommend that the amounts paid to the employees/vendor mentioned above be refunded to the county.

Board of Supervisors' Response

In response to auditor comments relative to Dennis Tartavoula's payment for services rendered to the county, when he was not acting as an employee of the sheriff, the county has acted equally based upon Section 25-4-103, paragraph 4(b). The employee is a deputy sheriff and holds no office or position with Hancock County. He does not recommend or approve any budget, he is not hired by the board of supervisors, i.e., the board approves the sheriff's budget but does not hire any of his employees. Therefore, the board of supervisors is of the opinion that it has complied with the law. The board has received an advisory opinion from the Ethics Commission and, as a result of same, until the question is resolved legally, it is not allowing the employee to bid or do electrical work for the county. Under Section 25-4-103, "Authority" means any component unit of a governmental agency and paragraph 4(b) says he may be a contractor or vendor with any authority of the governmental entity other than the authority of the governmental entity of which he is an officer or employee.

Auditor's Note

This has been turned over to the Investigative Audit Division.

2. Finding

As reported in the prior year audit report, Section 19-9-29, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), gives specific guidance as to how excess or surplus county funds are to be invested. Specifically, any surplus funds not required to meet the current needs and demands of more than seven (7) business days can be invested in the following manner:

- Such surplus funds can be invested in interest bearing time certificates of deposit with county depositories serving in accordance with Section 27-105-303, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), for periods of from fourteen (14) days to one (1) year.
- Such surplus can be invested in like manner as indicated in paragraph (a) above, in a state depository located within the county, if such depository is eligible for invested state funds.
- To the extent that the board of supervisors cannot invest surplus funds pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) above, for the stated maturity of from fourteen (14) days to one (1) year, the board may invest funds in eligible governmental debt securities as listed in the aforementioned section.

On June 15, 1988, Hancock County issued 4.8 million dollars in urban renewal revenue bonds and invested a substantial amount in two certificates of deposits of an out-of-state bank. The certificates mature three years from the purchase date and stand as sole security for payment on the notes that serially mature during the same three year period. In our opinion, the proceeds from the sale of urban renewal notes is county money and the surplus money investment in the certificates of deposit of an out-of-state bank is in violation of the above section's specific requirements as to how a county's surplus funds are to be invested.

Recommendation

The county should invest surplus funds in the three ways enumerated by state law only.

Board of Supervisors' Response

The funds invested are urban renewal project funds required for immediate disbursement and pursuant to Section 43-35-15(d), Miss. Code Ann. (1972), may be invested "...in property or securities in which savings banks may legally invest funds..." These investments comply with Section 43-35-15(d), Miss. Code Ann. (1972), which, as the more specific legislation, controls this matter rather than Section 19-9-29, Miss. Code Ann. (1972).

Chancery Clerk1. Finding

Section 19-13-43, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires funds to have cash available before checks are written. Checks were written on county funds which caused negative cash balances.

Recommendation

The chancery clerk should insure that no checks are written on funds when cash is not available.

Chancery Clerk's Response

Closer attention will be paid to this in the future to insure compliance with this statute.

2. Finding

Section 27-105-303, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires county depositories to pay interest on county deposits if the institution is authorized to pay interest on such deposits. The county depository did not pay interest on the county depository account.

Recommendation

The county depository should pay interest on county deposits.

Chancery Clerk's Response

The county depository was contacted on August 24, 1990, and is converting the county's accounts to interest bearing NOW accounts.

3. Finding

Section 27-105-371, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires any unidentified cash on hand or in the bank to be settled into the General Fund of the county. At September 30, 1989, the payroll clearing fund had $67,000 of unidentified cash.

Recommendation

The chancery clerk should make an attempt to identify the balance in the payroll clearing fund and settle the unidentified portion into the General Fund of the county.

Chancery Clerk's Response

An attempt will be made to identify the unidentified cash balance in the payroll clearing fund.

4. Finding

The Hancock County youth court records were not maintained properly. Bank statements were not reconciled. The cash journal was not maintained properly. Receipts were not written for all funds received. Receipts were not deposited timely. Settlements were not made timely. Upon review of the records, we determined there was a cash shortage in the youth court account.

Recommendation

The chancery clerk should oversee the accounting in youth court to insure records are maintained properly. Also, the funds missing should be refunded to the youth court account.

Chancery Clerk's Response

A court administrator has been hired to help oversee the operation of the youth court.

County Administrator1. Finding

Section 15-4-3, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires the county administrator to execute a bond in a penalty equal to 3% of the sum of all the state and county taxes shown on the assessment rolls and the levies to have been collectible in the year prior to the commencement of the term of office. The county administrator was not bonded.

Recommendation

The county administrator should be bonded for the amount required by state law.

County Administrator's Response

The county administrator is now bonded as required by law.

Road Manager1. Finding

Section 65-17-1, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires the road manager to execute a bond for $50,000. The road manager was not bonded at September 30, 1989.

Recommendation

The road manager should be bonded for $50,000.

Road Manager's Response

The road manager is now bonded as required by law.

Inventory Control Clerk1. Finding

Section 31-7-124, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires the inventory control clerk to execute a bond for $75,000. The inventory control clerk was not bonded.

Recommendation

The inventory control clerk should be bonded for $75,000.

Inventory Control Clerk's Response

We are now in compliance with this Code Section. I was bonded as of May 15, 1990, with United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company.

2. Finding

Audit tests of inventory revealed that some items on inventory could not be located. Further, some items were not tagged with the county's name.

Recommendation

The inventory control clerk should tag inventory items with their appropriate asset number. If an item does not exist or has been junked, then the proper steps should be taken to delete the item from inventory.

Inventory Control Clerk's Response

We are now in compliance.

3. Finding

Section 7-7-211, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), authorizes the State Auditor's Office to prescribe systems of accounting for county offices. The inventory control clerk did not maintain inventory control cards as prescribed by the State Auditor's Office.

Recommendation

The inventory control clerk should maintain inventory control cards as prescribed by the State Auditor's Office.

Inventory Control Clerk's Response

The inventory cards are now in order and we are in compliance with this Code Section.

4. Finding

The valuations assigned to some of the items on the county's inventory did not appear reasonable.

Recommendation

The inventory control clerk should make a concerted effort to obtain the actual cost of inventory items.

Inventory Control Clerk's Response

There were some typographical mistakes and since some items did not have invoices on file, it was necessary to go to the minutes for the amounts. All costs are now taken from the actual invoices where possible. We will also comply with this recommendation.

Tax Assessor-Collector1. Finding

Section 27-33-33, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), states the duties of the tax assessor as to homestead exemptions. Homestead exemptions were not always properly authorized.

Recommendation

The tax assessor should ensure that all exemptions are properly authorized.

Tax Assessor-Collector's Response

The taxpayer, in this case, has been billed for homestead exemption loss. This has been paid in full.

2. Finding

Section 27-29-11, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires the tax collector to settle all taxes collected for the various taxing authorities by the twentieth of the next month following the month of collection. Monthly settlements were not always made to the Piquette School District, which resulted in an accumulation of unsettled funds.

Recommendation

The tax collector should settle monthly all county taxes.

Tax Assessor-Collector's Response

The amount in question has been settled with sincere apology to all concerned.

3. Finding

Section 27-33-17, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), describes the interest and penalties assessed for payment of delinquent mobile home taxes. The tax assessor-collector did not always assess interest on delinquent mobile home tax collections.

Recommendation

The tax assessor-collector should enforce the law's above noted procedures for collecting mobile home taxes.

Tax Assessor-Collector's Response

The delay in mail has caused some confusion. However, the recommendation is accepted with full compliance in the future.

4. Finding

Sections 27-41-1 through 27-41-11, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), require the tax collector to collect regular ad valorem taxes on or before February 1 of each year and to assess penalties and interest on taxes collected thereafter. Penalties and interest were not assessed after February 1, 1989, on certain large real estate landholders resulting in a significant loss to the county.

Recommendation

The tax collector should assess penalties and interest on taxes delinquent after February 1.

Tax Assessor-Collector's Response

It was a management decision to delay the payment described above in order to facilitate the everyday and overall office operation. However, I did not fully comprehend that this would not be in compliance with Section 27-41-1 through 27-41-11, Miss. Code Ann. (1972). The recommendation is humbly accepted and the latter of the law will be strictly adhered to in the future.

Justice Court Clerk1. Finding

Not all voided receipts were retained in the receipt books.

Recommendation

Voided receipts should be retained and properly accounted for.

Justice Court Clerk's Response

We will begin paying more attention to this matter in the future.

2. Finding

Bank statements were not reconciled properly to the cash journal as of the date of the bank statement.

Recommendation

Bank statements should be reconciled to the cash journal as of the date of the bank statement.

Justice Court Clerk's Response

We have begun reconciling as of the 30th day of each month with the cash journal as required by the State Auditor's Office instead of reconciling when the statement is received.

3. Finding

Section 7-7-211, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), authorizes the State Auditor's Office to prescribe systems of accounting. The justice court clerk's office is not always posting the civil receipts to the court dockets properly.

Recommendation

The justice court clerk should insure all receipts are posted to the court dockets properly.

Justice Court Clerk's Response

We will strive to insure all receipts are posted to the court dockets properly.

4. Finding

Section 9-11-11, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires the justice court judges to sign each record upon disposition of the case. Many docket pages were not signed by the judges.

Recommendation

The justice court judges should sign the docket pages.

Justice Court Judges' Response

All criminal and civil proceedings are kept in folders or jackets. When judgement is made on a case, the disposition of the case, the date, and the judge's signature are put on these folders and jackets. Although we have suggested to sign the actual docket page in the past, we are in the process of bringing this matter up to date. All civil dockets are up to date at this time. We will continue to keep the signing of the docket page current.

5. Finding

Section 7-7-211, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), gives the State Auditor's Office the authority to prescribe accounting systems. An accounts receivable control account was not maintained for subsidiary accounts receivable records.

Recommendation

The justice court clerk should establish a control account in order to balance monthly to the individual accounts receivable as prescribed in the County Financial Accounting Manual.

Justice Court Clerk's Response

We will begin as of this audit to establish a control account in order to balance monthly to the individual account.

Sheriff1. Finding

Section 19-25-15, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires the sheriff's vehicles to be properly marked unless the use of unmarked vehicles has been approved by the board of supervisors. We did not find an order on the board minutes approving the use of the unmarked vehicles.

Recommendation

The sheriff should insure that the board of supervisors approve and record the use of unmarked vehicles on the minutes.

Sheriff's Response

This was presented to the board and is now recorded on the minutes. I did not know it was necessary to do this.

2. Finding

Section 19-25-74, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires the sheriff to maintain a meal log to be posted daily documenting all meals served to prisoners. A copy of the meal log is to be submitted to the board of supervisors on a monthly basis. The meal log was not maintained on a daily basis, nor was the log submitted to the board of supervisors.

Recommendation

The sheriff should maintain the meal log on a daily basis and should submit a copy of the log to the board each month.

Sheriff's Response

We will maintain a meal log on a daily basis and submit a copy each month to the board of supervisors.

3. Finding

Section 41-29-179, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), establishes the procedures for the disposition of seized properties. The sheriff's department did not have any established accounting procedures for seized properties. As a result, the sheriff's department was unable to account for the disposition of certain properties.

Recommendation

The sheriff's department should establish procedures to account for property seized and its disposition and reimburse the amount of cash that could not be accounted for.

Sheriff's Response

We will establish procedures and will have checks and balances on all property and monies.

4. Finding

Section 25-3-25, Miss. Code Ann. (1972), requires the sheriff's salary to be based on the latest decennial census. The sheriff's salary exceeded the amount allowed by this statute.

Recommendation

The sheriff's salary should be based on the latest decennial census and not the estimated current population.

Sheriff's Response

It is my understanding that I was receiving the required amount of compensation each month required by law.

The findings in this report came to our attention as a result of the audit procedures and tests that we applied. For those items not tested, nothing came to our attention that would lead us to believe that Hancock County, Mississippi, overall, was in compliance with state laws and regulations other than those laws and regulations for which we noted violations in our testing referred to above.

The State Auditor's Office will review the findings in this report on future audit engagements to insure that corrective action has been taken to correct all findings.

This report is intended solely for the use of management and should not be used for any other purpose. This restriction is not intended to limit the distribution of this report which is a matter of public record.

Coupon clippers find bounty at Bay library

Coupons are fast becoming the trend of the future, and people across the country have become avid coupon clippers and users. Some say by using coupons hundreds of dollars can be saved monthly by individuals and families.

The Hancock County Library System has taken advantage of this trend by providing boxes of coupons for the public at the City-County Public Library. Hundreds of coupons for various products are available.

"We have a volunteer who clips coupons for us and keeps our boxes up-to-date," said Prima Wusnack, library director.

"At least once a week, she takes the boxes, culls the expired coupons and clips new ones—all on a volunteer basis. We greatly appreciate her dedication and hard work for this project, and urge people to use this service."

Anyone wishing to make donations to the coupon boxes should bring their clipped coupons to any of the three branches of the Library System.

Further information is available by calling the City-County Public Library at 467-5282, Kiln Library at 255-1724 or the Waveland Library at 467-9240.

Saddam Hussein profiled on ETV

Who is Saddam Hussein? Is he a madman willing to sacrifice his country and people or a clever Arab leader out to win the political battle even though he may lose a military war?

Today, the world's eyes are focused on Hussein, a man whose decisions are being examined by Western analysts in an attempt to understand his motives and predict his future actions.

So far, Saddam Hussein has been a man extremely difficult to project.

In "The Mind of Hussein," airing Tuesday, Feb. 26 at 9 p.m. on Mississippi ETV, "Frontline" correspondent Hodding Carter looks for those answers as he traces Saddam Hussein's life from his boyhood days in Tikrit to the present as Iraq's defiant leader.

Several people who know Hussein at different stages of his life are interviewed, including a former neighbor of Hussein's who remembers him as being the "town bully"; Dr. Moualla, the doctor who treated him for a gunshot wound after Hussein participated in an assassination attempt on the then Iraqi president Abdul Karim Kassem; a former political prisoner who recalls being personally beaten by him as Hussein rose to power in the Baath party; and a former British ambassador to Iraq who says that Hussein despises the English and Americans.

The Sea Coast Echo BUSINESS REVIEW

Gateway Body and Paint

Gateway Body and Paint began in 1980 as Auto Body and Paint in Bay St. Louis. At that time, the repairs consisted of government contracts, dealership repairs and insurance claims, as well as jobs from the individual consumer.

In 1983, due to an expanding work load, the shop moved to its present location of 1002 Old Spanish Trail in Waveland.

Today, we at Gateway Body and Paint consider our services to be the best the industry has to offer. With our emphasis on equipment and training, we can keep up to date with the latest in collision repair.

Our Chief E-Z Liner frame machine, with multiple pull capabilities along with manufacturer specifications guides (the actual vehicle blueprints in millimeters), allows us to repair your car to its original pre-accident condition.

Among the many changes affecting the collision repair industry, the new welding processes are a primary concern. The unibody has brought a range of lightweight metals with strength properties ranging from mild steel to high-strength steels.

These metals are not only more difficult to weld due to their thinness, but require many other considerations.

The location of each weld, the size of each weld, the type of wire used, the amount of heat used, and the corrosion restoration are among the few of the considerations.

The automakers now say that the mig welder will give the best performance in controlling the critical variables in unibody welding.

Corrosion protection, such as zinc rich weld-through primers, body cavity wax sprayed internally with the use of special equipment and undercoating, restore your vehicle to original manufacturer specifications of rust-proofing, preventing premature rust-through.

Today's vehicles will most likely be painted with a (hi-tech) two- or three-stage paint system or a base coat, clear coat paint system. Either one is expensive and requires skilled technicians and excellent equipment to refinish collision damage and achieve factory texture and gloss.

Our in-shop DuPont Cronar paint mixing system and our professional Viking spray booth allows us to give your vehicle the quality color match and finish you deserve.

Training has become an important part of the collision repair industry because of the ever changing advanced technology of the automotive manufacturer in both design and safety features.

Our employees have made great efforts to become properly trained in the latest techniques required to make quality repairs.

Our repair technicians attended Chief E-Z Liner frame school in Dallas, and completed I-Car's Advanced-Tech training course, as well as painting techniques, color match, and tinting from DuPont's training center in New Orleans.

Our plans for future training include a one-week DuPont refinisher course in Atlanta, Ga. in March of 1991 and a I-Car eight-unit course later in 1991.

We would like to make every effort to assist you with your insurance claims. Whether it be filling out your accident report, notifying your insurance company, or making your deductible payment as easy as possible.

We can arrange financing(*) for both insurance deductibles or non-insurance repairs. This financing can be 90-day same as cash or to suit your budget needs.

We at Gateway Body and Paint have made a commitment to being the number one collision repair facility in Hancock County, offering quality repairs through necessary equipment and proper training with an attitude of service and care with your safety in mind.
